

The UK relationship with the EU post June 23rd 2016

Dear Tomas and the ORGALIME board

You will all be aware of the decision of the British people for the UK to leave the European Union. Although this was not the preferred outcome of the referendum for Orgalime's UK members and their members, we are determined to ensure that our industry remains as close as possible to our European partners. There are a number of uncertainties as to the UK's final position in relation to the EU, and it is possible that we will not know the final settlement for some considerable time. Over this period of negotiation and beyond, and regardless of the political settlement, we intend to play as active a part in the activities of ORGALIME as we have in the past, and also with colleagues in other European sector committees and associations. We hope that we can count on your support for this objective both individually and from your associations.

If you have any questions regarding the UK-EU situation, and in particular relating to our sector please do not hesitate to contact us. We will do our best to give you the best information, although it needs to be appreciated that there are very many unknowns.

We are also delighted to let you know that we can confirm the plan for GA to be held in the UK in June 2017.

Yours
